Early Years Foundation Stage

EYFS practice and planning which is taken from 'Development Matters (April 2012) part of the 0-5 curriculum. Each area of the whole curriculum is considered and given the same importance as each other. The principle areas of learning are communication, physical development and personal and social development. The specific areas of learning are mathematics, literacy, understanding the world, expressive arts and design.

Children are born ready, able and eager to learn. They actively reach out to interact with other people, and in the world around them. Development is not an automatic process, however. It depends on each unique child having opportunities to interact in positive relationships and enabling environments.

The four themes of the EYFS underpin all the guidance. This document - Development Matters - shows how these themes, and the principles that inform them, work together for children in the EYFS.

Positive A Unique Enabling Learning and Child Relationships Development Environments Themes Every child is a unique child Children learn to be strong Children learn and develop well Children develop and learn in who is constantly learning and independent through in enabling environments, in Principles and can be resilient, capable. positive relationships. which their experiences respond confident and self-assured.

Practice

Practitioners

- understand and observe each child's development and learning, assess progress, plan for next steps
- support babies and children to develop a positive sense of their own identity and culture
- identify any need for additional support
- keep children safe
- value and respect all children and families equally

Positive relationships are

- warm and loving, and foster a sense of belonging
- sensitive and responsive to the child's needs, feelings and interests
- supportive of the child's own efforts and independence
- consistent in setting clear boundaries
- stimulating
- built on key person relationships in early years settings to their individual needs and there is a strong partnership between practitioners and parents and carers.

Enabling Environments

- · value all people
- value learning

They offer

- stimulating resources, relevant to all the children's cultures and communities
- rich learning opportunities through play and playful teaching
- support for children to take risks and explore different ways. The framework covers the education and care of all children in early years provision, including children with special educational needs and disabilities.

Practitioners teach children by ensuring challenging, playful opportunities across the prime and specific areas of learning and development.

They foster the characteristics of effective early learning

- Playing and exploring
- Active learning
- Creating and thinking critically